Urban chic.
A wander around the shops. A trip to the museum. An espresso on the piazza. An active, fulfilling life between the office, café and loft ... Milan, the capital of Lombardy, is also the capital of art, fashion and design. And it is the home of Antonio Citterio.

This designer and architect of international renown has already designed the Axor Citterio collection for Axor. Axor is now presenting his latest work: Axor Citterio M. An entire bathroom collection, inspired by modern life in the city. M for Modernism, Metropolis and Milan.

Distinctively slim contours and an elegant overall impression of the collection – not so much a tribute to the spirit of the times as one to Italian design. Perhaps that is why Axor Citterio M can be easily and seamlessly integrated into so many different bathroom furnishings and lifestyles.

Accordingly, Axor Citterio M also demonstrates the difference between fashionable and modern, temporary and timeless – almost incidentally.

Design: Antonio Citterio with Toan Nguyen
Timelessly modern: the slim-line single lever basin mixer with a flat handle and distinctive spout. The unusual design allows combinations with practically any type of sink.
Urban chic in its entire diversity: in various versions, the concealed wall fitting represents a modern and space-saving solution.
Classic in terms of function yet modern in design: the mixer embodies the contrast between a traditional 3-hole arrangement and clean, no-frills design.
A reserved exterior harbours a refreshing function and effect: the Axor Citterio M shower solution comprising a thermostat, two shut-off valves and the asymmetrical shower head is only one of many possible combinations.
Perfectly co-ordinated: the Axor Citterio bathtub and the fitting mounted on the side make bathing a very special experience.
