HANSGROHE INTRODUCES NEW RAINDANCE E SHOWER COLLECTION EYE-CATCHING DESIGN & EXCEPTIONAL WATER PERFORMANCE

(Alpharetta, GA – May 2018) Hansgrohe, in collaboration with Phoenix Design, brings stylish and efficient new shower solutions to the market this spring. Square, elegant, expressive: the clean, linear design of Hansgrohe's new Raindance E shower range makes a statement in the bathroom. Two showerheads and one showerpipe component make up the trio of offerings. Boasting a luxe, high-design look, each integrates Hansgrohe's exceptional German engineering and delivers superlative water performance.

Derek Taylor, Product Manager - Showering at Hansgrohe USA, comments, "The minimalist design and flexible features of Hansgrohe's Raindance E showers make them ideal for pairing with a wide range of shower trims, valves and wallbar sets. One popular configuration is to position the overhead shower and shower trim or showerpipe in a corner or off-center in a bathroom. This allows for more freedom of movement while conveniently separating the bathroom's dry and wet areas."

Thanks to improved spray technology, the square, Raindance E 300 1-Jet Showerhead measures approximately 12 x 12 inches and generates a voluminous rain shower of full, soft droplets. Spray jets are arranged in a special way to ensure that the body is completely enveloped. The jets at the center of the spray disc are closely positioned for a more powerful spray, making shower time rituals easier, such as thoroughly rinsing out all traces of shampoo. The other jets are more spaced and their gentle spray relaxes the shoulders and upper back. The overhead shower blends elegantly into the bathroom. A wall mount version with a new shower arm that has a flat connection to the overhead shower is also available. When paired together, the showerhead is able to pivot for additional convenience. Both versions are available in chrome or brushed nickel finishes. For those looking for a seamless shower look, Hansgrohe's Raindance E 400 Square 1-Jet Showerhead is the pièce de résistance. Finished entirely in chrome, it elegantly merges into the ceiling, creating a generous shower sky. Both models have available flow rates of 1.8 GPM or 2.0 GPM per minute.

The Raindance E 300 Showerhead can be paired with the complementary Raindance E Showerpipe, which incorporates a handshower holder and a thermostat into an impressive ensemble. High-quality glass covers the surfaces of the showerpipe, including on the thermostat, which doubles as a shelf with ample space for shampoo and other shower accessories. The integrated handshower holder is fully adjustable, connecting directly to the showerpipe, and it can be tilted at various angles for added convenience in the shower. The showerhead and handshower are sold separately from each other allowing the product to be configured to the user's needs.

Completing the new shower assortment is the ShowerTablet 600 2-Function Exposed Shower Thermostat, the most configurable exposed thermostatic shower mixer in Hansgrohe history. When it is in operation, the mixed water is routed back into the wall, allowing the customized placement of a new Raindance E showerhead, or any showerhead desired. The ShowerTablet can also control a handshower outlet. Exterior surfaces are covered with the same high quality glass as the showerpipe. The ShowerTablet is available in a chrome, as well as a white/chrome dual finish.
